THE FOUR CANDIDATES.

Hirem came to Arizona in the early days and served his country as a soldier, and made a very good one. After his discharge from the service of Uncle Sam he settled in Tucson, made money, went to the Legislature and finally to Congress two terms.

Mr. Davis also came to Arizona as a soldier, was discharged and has also made Arizona his heme. He has been to the Legislature of the Territory, spouted law, and done many other honorable things example the second secon cept serve the people as Delegate. He is Campbell is an old residenter in Arizona he did not come as a soldier, but dealt in soldier's goods, has been in the Legislature.

Woolsey came like many other honest men, swinging a blacksnake over mules.

He raised volunteers and did good service for the Territory in killing Indians; opened mines, cultivated farms, raised cattle, built mills, served in the Legislature and now has done, can and will do, with a seat in the 46th Congress.

The candidates before the people are all od men, and a word against either would be to betray that honesty and fairness which newspapers are supposed to pursue. It is for the people to consider which of the gen-tlemen now in the field has the greatest claims upon the people for their support.

WANT MILITARY PROTECTION.

Prominent citizens of Southern Arizona have telegraphed Gen. Wilcox, asking him to place soldiers at the different stations on the mail route between Florence and Tucson; and also for a number of soldiers to act as a guard to the mail-coaches. The General would have willingly acceded to the request were it not for a certain law passed by the last Democratic Congress, which entirely ties his hands and places it beyond his power. For the benefit of all, we give the Section which particularly apolies to the case :
